Why Finday: Market Comparison and Our Advantage

Finday Intelligence | Prepared 12 October 2026

The problem

Most owner-run businesses know their totals only at month end. Sales sit in a notebook, purchases in a bill folder, expenses in a WhatsApp group, and the accountant gets everything late. By the time the numbers arrive, the decisions that needed them have already been made.

Finday closes that gap. Log each day's sales, purchases and expenses in seconds, and see where the business stands the same day.

The options in the market

Business owners in India usually choose between a few kinds of tools. Each solves part of the problem.

Option	Typical cost	What it does well	Where it falls short for daily profit visibility
Spreadsheets (Excel, Google Sheets)	Free	Flexible, familiar, no subscription	Built and maintained by hand; no guided entry, no automatic reports, errors grow with the data
Khatabook	Not confirmed (no reliable current price found)	Simple customer credit (udhaar) tracking on mobile	Focused on credit balances, not full profit, balance sheet or cash flow
myBillBook and Vyapar	Free or limited free plans; paid plans from about INR 399 to 4,000 a year (vendor and third-party figures)	GST billing, invoices, inventory, mobile use, some work offline	Built around billing and invoices; profit, ledger and cash analytics are secondary
Zoho Books and Wave	Free tiers with limits; paid plans from about USD 16 to 20 a month	Complete accounting, invoicing, bank feeds	Accounting-first, so entering daily sales is heavier; free tiers limit users, invoices or bank feeds

Tally Prime	Silver single-user about INR 22,500 plus GST, plus about INR 4,500 a year for updates (third-party figures)	Industry standard for Indian accountants	Desktop software that needs accounting knowledge; not designed for owner dashboards
GnuCash	Free and open source	Full double-entry accounting, works offline	Desktop only, no hosted staff logins, manual bank imports, steep learning curve

Prices change often and come from public pricing pages and third-party reviews checked in October 2026. Check each vendor's site before a purchase decision.

How Finday compares

The table shows what each category typically delivers for a daily business tracker. "Yes" means it is a core part of the product; "Limited" means it exists but is not the focus; "No" means it is not typically offered.

What matters to the owner	Spreadsheets	Billing apps	Full accounting	Finday
Quick daily entry of sales, purchases, expenses	Manual	Partial (billing-first)	Heavier (accounting-first)	Yes
Live dashboard with margins and trends	Manual	Limited	Limited	Yes
P&L, Balance Sheet and Cash Flow from the same entries	Manual	Limited	Yes	Yes (Balance Sheet is simplified, cash-based)
GST summary	Manual	Yes	Yes	Yes (summary, not return filing)
Customer and vendor receivables and payables with aging	Manual	Yes	Yes	Yes
Referral commission tracking per referrer	Manual	No	No	Yes
Your data stored in your own Google Drive	Yes	No	Varies	Yes (default option)
Revoke access and keep a full copy of your data	Yes	Varies	Varies	Yes

Staff logins with role-based access	Limited	Yes	Yes	Yes
Invoicing and billing	Manual	Yes	Yes	Not included
Works offline	Yes	Partial	Partial	No, needs internet

Why Finday

1. Built for the owner's daily decisions. Entries take seconds, and the dashboard updates from them the same day. You see margins, revenue drivers and cost trends without waiting for month end.

2. Your data stays in your hands. By default, your finance data lives in a Google Sheet inside your own Google Drive. Finday reads and writes it live and does not keep a copy in its database. You can open, download or delete the Sheet yourself, and remove Finday's access from your Google account at any time. Finday asks for the limited `drive.file` permission only, so it cannot browse the rest of your Drive.

3. One set of numbers for you and your accountant. P&L, Balance Sheet, Cash Flow and GST summary come from the same entries. Export them as PDF, Excel or CSV. Your accountant works from the same figures you see, with no re-keying.

4. Your team, with the right access. Owners, admins, managers and members each have their own login. Managers can be limited to the pages they need, so staff see only what their role allows.

5. Made for Indian businesses. INR currency, GST reporting, financial-year start month you choose, and Indian digit grouping in every amount.

6. Referral commissions built in. Track commissions due and paid per referrer, which general accounting and billing tools do not cover.

7. Flexible storage, with control. Choose your own Google Drive (default) or Finday's managed database. Switching between them is a request that the Finday team reviews, with the billing impact shown first.

Where a simpler tool may fit better

Finday is a good fit when you want daily visibility into profit and cash. Other tools may suit you better if:

- You only need to send invoices and collect GST on them. A billing app is cheaper.
- You need full double-entry accounts for statutory audit. Tally or a full accounting package is the right choice.
- You work without internet for long periods. Offline billing apps or desktop software are better suited.
- You only track customer credit. A credit ledger app is enough.

We would rather you pick the right tool than the wrong one with us.

Indicative plans

Prices are in INR and indicative. Confirm the final price, GST treatment and included logins before you sign.

Plan	Monthly	Yearly	Logins	Data stored in
Professional	1,999	23,988	1	Finday managed database

Every plan starts with a 14-day trial. Percentage discounts can apply on top of these prices; ask us for the current offer.

Suggested demo flow

1. Sign up and set your financial-year start month and categories.
2. Connect your Google Drive so you see where your data lives.
3. Log three entries: a sale, a purchase and an expense.
4. Open the dashboard to see margins and trends update.
5. Download the P&L as PDF and open the Google Sheet to show the data is yours.

Next steps

1. Confirm the plan that fits your business size and team.
2. Start the 14-day trial and connect your Google Drive.
3. Enter your first week of entries together with us.
